CONFINED SPACE SERVICES CAPABILITY STATEMENT

WHY CONFINED SPACE SERVICES ARE REQUIRED

Entering a confined space may be extremely hazardous. Therefore, it is important that anyone who must work in a confined space, or who supervises someone who must enter a confined space, understands the hazards involved. A confined space standard - OSHA regulation 29 CFR 1910.146 - is any type of chamber such as a storage tank, transformer vault, manhole, etc., where entry or exit is restricted. Ventilation in confined spaces may also be restricted and may cause adverse atmospheric conditions such as low oxygen and a buildup of toxic vapors and combustible gases within the confined space.
